Heaven must have needed another angler because they took one on October 19th. Albert Jordan, owner of Coffee Creek Marina on Lake Fork passed away. Albert had been a longtime member of the Lake Fork Texas Trails Bassmasters, on the Board of Directors for The Wish to Fish Foundation and their pontoon captain, and had served in the past as a Director for the Lake Fork Sportsman Association. He loved Lake Fork, worked for Lake Fork and was a truly great friend. He is already dearly missed.

Randy Hooker from Nevada, Texas caught this nice 8.58-pound hawg fishing the 8th Annual Berkley Tournament on Lake Fork. For his efforts he won $500 in cash and a new 2013 Skeeter ZX200 powered by a Yamaha 200 SHO, equipped with Humminbird Electronics and a Minn Kota trolling motor. (Fisherman’s Guide Photo by Sue Hampton)

Peter Cherkas of Des Moines, Iowa won heaviest bass under the slot with this 2.67-pound bass in the Berkley Tournament winning $400 in hourly cash and a Skeeter ZX 190 powered by a 150 motor. See Story on Page 4-A. (Fisherman’s Guide Photo by Sue Hampton)

The four most important things in Bubba’s life are God, family, country and of course, fishing. Imagine the last one!! I know this to be true because I have seen a sign in his house that reads “Fishing isn’t a matter of life or death, it is much more important than that!” Bubba doesn’t fish to live, he lives to fish! According to Bubba that is the order of importance in his life. The way he feels, if he loves the first three with all his heart and unwavering dedication, fishing is allowed. Always, no matter how strong the desire to be on the lake, the first three always come first.

In most everyday situations, if you asked Bubba what he would do, unless extremely serious, he would say, “Have a BBQ, drink a few beers and celebrate life.” If it were a semi-serious situation he would counsel you... say something like, “Go fishing, relax, give it some thought and the answer will come to you!” In matters of extreme importance he has only one answer, “Trust in God and country, for the Lord helps those who help themselves!” This is probably the best answer anyone could apply to any given situation.

Bubba has told Bubba many times that he does have a way at times of being painfully honest. Just recently in a conversation he was having with another fellow fisherman he remarked, “I love all bodies of water except those darn pity puddles. A lot of people swim in them but nothing can survive in them. They are always filled with self remorse and pity. People sink into them and expect others to pull them out. At that time they quit helping themselves and just become dependent.” To my way of thinking this was the most profound statement I had ever heard from Bubba.

Bubba has a way of comparing life and situations with fishing. He proved this to me by adding, “The only thing you can catch from a pity puddle is blame. People that swim in them want to blame everyone and everything in life for their problems. What people in these puddles need to do is take swimming lessons or grab their ears and pull themselves out.” (Well, that is not quite how Bubba said it, but you get my drift!) Bubba opened my eyes that day and gave me some food for thought that nourished the spirit. I believe in Bubba’s way of thinking. If more people did, the enjoyment of living would be ever present. This shines in Bubba’s life everyday. Whenever you see him he has a smile and happiness to share. As a matter of fact, sometimes he smiles so much people wonder what he’s up to!

To Bubba life is not a mystery that he has to go in search for the answer, it is a gift. Every morning when he opens his eyes for another day, it is Thanksgiving and he is thankful for the gift of life. Maybe we all should make “Thanksgiving” an everyday ritual. “That’s what Bubba does!”

the isolated cover is in 4’- 9’. If the bass are feeding up on shad more than chasing near the bottom, a 3/8 oz bladed jig with a Live Magic Shad trailer tends to catch big fish that have become conditioned to so many spinnerbaits over the years. If it’s 8’ deep or less, I drop my Power Poles and make repeated casts from a distance.
After I’m convinced I’ve caught all the chasers, I’ll quietly drift in a bit closer and drop my Poles again, staying back as far as I can while still presenting a roll cast with very little splash.
Jigs will certainly catch fish from these spots, but Texas rigged creature baits are more weed less, with less risk of ruining the spot by snagging. For bigger bass and on active days, a 3/8 oz bullet weight with a Lake Fork Craw Tube is my favorite to fling around. If the fish are smaller or the bite is tough, I’ll drop down to a smaller Texas rigged Baby Fork Creature or Hyper Stick with a 1/8 to ¼ oz bullet weight and slowly probe every square inch of their hideout.
Again, I can’t emphasize enough how fish tend to stack up on isolated cover and you can regularly catch multiple good fish from one little spot if you stay away and keep quiet.

Long, accurate casts to key areas of the cover without snagging are the key to maximizing your catch. Roll casts with long rods allow the splashless entry of a pitch, yet from a much farther distance, especially with long rods.
I’ve found the Dobyns 7’3” lineup of Savvy or Champion rods to be perfect for moving baits like cranks and chatterbaits, while their ultrasensitive and still deliver great feel from long distances.

The 8th Annual Berkley Big Bass Tournament presented by Bass Champs, Inc. was held on Lake Fork at Lake Fork Marina on October 19th and 20th. Ten places per hour for the two days of the tournament were paid for the heaviest bass weighed in during each hour. For the angler catching the heaviest bass over the 24” inch slot that angler was guaranteed to be taking home the grand prize of a 2013 Skeeter ZX 200 powered by a Yamaha 200 SHO, equipped with Humminbird Electronics and Minn Kota trolling motor. For the heaviest bass under the 16” slot the winner would be acquiring a 2013 Skeeter SX 190 powered by a Yamaha 150, equipped with Humminbird Electronics and Minn Kota trolling motor. The tournament drew over 800 anglers to Lake Fork to compete with some anglers coming from as far away as Ohio and Iowa.

Chad Potts, President of Bass Champs, Inc. stated, “I’m excited to see this event continuing to grow each year. I was a little concerned about the participation heading into the weekend because of the threat of severe weather. However, we ended up avoiding the bad storms, and had a great turnout again.” Potts continued, “I would like to thank Berkley for their continued support of this event and grass roots tournament anglers. They are a great partner.” Berkley baits made a great showing on Lake Fork but so did Mother Nature. Anglers were facing high winds and white caps on the first day of the tournament and a dense fog bank but nicer weather on the second day of competition. This became quite evident when the large bass this reservoir is known for did not show up at the scales on the first day and only three on the second day. Anglers were not able to fish the main points and deep structure of the open lake without being tossed on the first day. Many of the fishermen reported choosing a wind blocked cove in hopes of finding the larger bass moving up and being able to work (Continued on next page)

Russell Oliphant from Altus, OK., won the 8 o’clock hour with this 6.69-lb. bass and had the lead for an hour for big bass over the slot.

Don Whisenhunt from Winthrop, AR., won the 9 o’clock hour with this 7.17-lb. bass and had the lead for an hour for big bass over the slot.

their baits without being hindered by the wind and waves. This explained smaller weights recorded at the scales on the first day. Only three bass over the Lake Fork 24” slot were weighed in during the course of the tournament and these were brought to the scales in the first three hourly weigh-ins of the second day. More than a few anglers reported their hearts being broken by bass that didn’t quite reach the 24-inch mark or exceeded the 16-inch mark.

The winning bass under the slot was weighed in during the 10 o’clock hour of the second day. Peter Cherkas of Des Moines, Iowa brought his catch weighing 2.67-pounds to the scale in hopes that it would hold up for the grand prize for the heaviest bass under 16-inches. “My dad and I have fished a couple of the Berkley tournaments, but this year I got to fish with my fiancé and this was her first tournament,” said Peter. Peter caught his prize winner on a Berkley Flicker Shad clear with a black back crank bait. “I only caught three bass during the tournament but one of them was the right fish,” he said. His fish held up as the heaviest bass under the slot winning him not only the 2nd Place check of $400 for the hour but also a Skeeter ZX 190 powered by a Yamaha 150, Humminbird Electronics and Minn Kota trolling motor.

The heaviest bass over the slot was caught by Randy Hooker of Nevada, Texas weighing 8.58-pounds. “I think I have fished in all of the Berkley Big Bass tournaments,” he commented. “I didn’t get to fish Saturday at all, and it was tough fishing Sunday. My targeted spots were grassy areas with drop-offs to deeper water nearby. The fish would move up to feed in the shallows, then go back out to the deeper water.” Randy caught his winning bass on a stripped down buzz bait that he had put a Berkley black & blue skirt on and dyed the head chartreuse using a slow retrieve method, just barely keeping it on the surface. His catch won him $500 in the hour and the grand prize of a 2013 Skeeter ZX 200 powered by a Yamaha 200 SHO, and equipped with Humminbird Electronics and Minn Kota trolling motor.

Andrew Marks of Berkley addressed the crowd before the presentation of the checks and prizes, and thanked everyone for their continued support of this event and for choosing Berkley/Sebile products for their fishing needs. Marks stated, “This event is always a learning experience for us. The feedback we receive helps us with product development, research and marketing. It also gives us a clearer idea of what our customers want from Berkley in the future. We look forward to seeing everyone next year.”

Highlights of the tournament will be recap in the WFN Network. For show times, follow the WFN link on www.BassChamps.com.
November Bassin on the Fork

By John Tanner

Fall is here and the bass are moving. This time of year the bass are right in the middle of the fall feeding frenzy and boy can it be a blast. There are all kinds of ways to catch those Lake Fork lunkers during this time so you can usually fish your strengths and do well. Shallow or deep, either way can be good. A lot of the bigger fish we catch all year long seem to bite in November. Some shallow and some deep, so it is kind of a tossup day to day.

There are usually a good number of fish that show up out deep at the mouths of the creeks and on some of the main lake offshore structure. These fish are feeding on shad with the bigger bass feeding on shad and yellow bass. Carolina rigged Berkley Havoc Bottom Hoppers and Berkley Hollow Belly swimbaits rigged on one ounce jig heads or an A-rig are good choices on the deep fish.

The shallow fish usually are feeding on shad pretty heavy and will follow them just about anywhere they go. The baitfish usually wind up in some of the main lake pockets and the backs of some of the major creeks. The bass will set up in ambush points along the way. Grass lines close to deep water in the area, points, channel bends and tree lines are all good places to fish for fall fishing. On the grass beds try bigger topwaters like the Sebile Slim Stick.

Frog fishing can be awesome this time of year as well so I would go with the Ribbit by Stanley. Speaking of Stanley, it’s hard to beat a white Stanley Vibra Shaft spinnerbait this time of year. Chatterbaits with a Berkley Havoc Sub Wobbler for a trailer is a big bass killer and for the stumps always flip the Berkley Chigger Craw and they have a new larger 5 inch size for the big bite! Fall fishing is some of the best of the year so come out on to Lake Fork and catch you a trophy bass.

Crappie fishing is awesome here in the fall and winter months. We also offer crappie trips so if you want to go catch a limit of those tasty morsels, give us a ring.

Thank you for reading this article and hopefully it will help you catch more and bigger bass this fall. “November is ‘Super Slab’ Month
NOVEMBER IS “SUPER SLAB” MONTH

By Terri Moon

It’s here - November – probably my very favorite month to fish! The crappie start their fall migration up the creeks, and just like in the spring, the first fish coming through is generally the biggest.

The falling water temperatures will trigger the fall feeding frenzy. They will be following the baitfish so keep a close eye on that depth finder and watch for balls of shad. A really good graph will show you if the fish are following these shad and at what depth they are moving through. This will take a lot of the “guess work” out of how deep you need to be fishing. Just because you caught crappie at 20 ft. yesterday doesn’t mean they will bite at that depth today. These depths will even change throughout the day. So, it’s necessary to keep checking your graph for any changes in depths of these active fish. I sure appreciate my Lowrance HDS units. They are my number ‘one’ piece of equipment for targeting crappie - especially this time of year!

Another reason these fish can be at different depths in different areas of the lake is because of the lake “turning over.” This process will work its way around the lake. So, if you are fishing in an area that’s not producing fish and you notice a lot of brown foamy bubbles on the surface, you’re probably in an area where this is taking place. It’s best to just go try another area with clearer water and better oxygen levels.

The baits that have been working for us have been Lake Fork Tackle’s ‘Live Baby Shad’ in ‘Electric Chicken’ or blue & pearl or Bobby Garland’s ‘Black Gum’ (black & pink) or chartreuse – also, Bob Young’s ‘Ghost’ (grey w/blue) or ‘Slick Willie’ (chartreuse w/blue tail).

For the rest of your crappie fishing needs, check with Lake Fork Marina. They have got a great assortment plus some great “holiday gifts” available for the fisherman in your family. Probably the coolest “holiday gift” available at Lake Fork Marina this year has to be the new “Easy Step System.” Oh my goodness – has this ever been a lifesaver for me and my customers. With the drastically low lake levels this year, we no longer have boat slip availability – so needless to say – loading people in and out of the boat has been a major issue – until now!! This is a ladder with a hand rail that attaches to the front of your boat trailer. So, no more crawling in and out of the boat – “PRICE-LESS”!! For more info on these call Ken or Dana Donahue at Lake Fork Marina @ 903-765-2764. It’s always a bonus to come across something that makes life easier! So, in my opinion, this has to be the best “holiday gift” idea available this year!

I hope you all get the chance to get out and enjoy Fork’s great fall fishing. Also, be extra careful with the low lake levels. My best to you all!
Alien Plant in Lake Quitman

In recent weeks, the Inland Fisheries Division of Texas Parks and Wildlife (TPWD) discovered a resurgence of the non-native aquatic plant water hyacinth at Lake Quitman. This plant is a free-floating (non-rooted) aquatic plant native to South America. It was originally introduced into North America in the late 1800s and has been widely spread around the country through the water garden and aquarium trade, and by boaters. The plant is popular with water garden enthusiasts primarily due to its attractive lavender or pink flower; however, water hyacinth is a prohibited plant in Texas and is illegal to sell or possess.

Water hyacinth, along with other non-native plants like giant salvinia and water lettuce, provide virtually no benefit to fish or the aquatic environment. The plants reproduce rapidly and can quickly cover large portions of a lake’s surface, blocking access for boaters, reducing dissolved oxygen available for fish and other aquatic organisms and generally impairing water quality. Of course, not all aquatic plants are bad. In fact, Inland Fisheries staff conducted plantings of a native species called water willow at Lake Quitman during the summer to try and increase beneficial habitat for fish in the lake and give anglers more areas to target fish. Water hyacinth was first discovered in Lake Quitman in fall of 2001 and has been managed through cooperative efforts by Wood County, local angling organizations and TPWD. The plants have primarily been controlled by manual removal and herbicide applications. As a result of treatment efforts and drought, the species has not been observed in recent years during routine fisheries habitat surveys by TPWD Inland Fisheries staff. However, recent rains created heavy flows in the creek, allowing hyacinth to be dispersed around the western portion of the lake. The plant is difficult to control due to its high rate of reproduction and the persistence of seed banks in the sediment. The seeds of water hyacinth have been known to remain viable for over a quarter century, so it is necessary to monitor lakes for new growth from year to year.

The plants were observed by Inland Fisheries staff during routine sampling of the fish populations at Lake Quitman conducted in October. Following discovery of the plants, TPWD staff manually removed plants in the western portion of the reservoir and deployed a containment boom in Brushy Creek to attempt to prevent dispersal of plants around the lake before a herbicide treatment can be done. Unfortunately, there was too much water hyacinth in the creek for it to be practical to remove it manually. A herbicide treatment proposal has been prepared to treat the remaining plants in the lake, and the treatment will likely be conducted in November. Water hyacinth will probably require continued treatment efforts through the spring of 2014 followed by periodic monitoring.

Fisheries surveys at Lake Quitman continue to show that the lake contains a quality fishery for largemouth bass, crappie, channel catfish and a diverse sunfish community. Water hyacinth poses a threat to maintaining these important fisheries, and TPWD biologists want to control the spread of this aquatic nuisance. Aquatic recreation is very important to the local economy. In a 2010 spring survey at Lake Quitman, TPWD estimated that anglers spent approximately $18,000 in association with their fishing activities on the lake in just a three-month period.

Water hyacinth has also been present in Lake Fork since 1993. Its distribution is monitored annually, and cooperative treatment efforts by the Sabine River Authority and TPWD are conducted as needed to control the spread of the plants.
Texas Game Wardens Organize First-Ever K9 Unit

For the first time in their history, Texas Game Wardens have a full-time, statewide canine team. The first five canine handlers and dogs have graduated from an intense eight-week training program located at the world famous Utah POST canine facility in Salt Lake City. The second wave of canine handlers and dogs will attend the course in January 2014. “The K9 program has been a long time coming, and we are extremely proud of our handlers for their hard work - an effort which resulted in a 100 percent pass rate,” said Grahame Jones, Chief of Special Operations for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Law Enforcement Division. “In addition to excellent support from the department and the Parks and Wildlife Commission, we would like to thank the Travis County Sheriff’s Department, Texas Department of Public Safety, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Foundation for assisting during the planning phase.”

Funding for the purchase of dogs and travel to and from Utah was provided by the TPW Foundation through a private donor. Utah Post provided the training at no cost with the exception of a minimal administrative fee, an amount also paid for by the private donor. Depending on geographical location, the dogs will be used for various functions including detection of illegally taken or smuggled game and fish, search and rescue, cadaver search, and narcotics enforcement. “Most of the dogs will have dual functions such as wildlife detection and search and rescue,” said Game Warden Capt. Kevin Davis, who oversees the canine program. “I am gratified to assist Texas Game Wardens in their efforts to diminish the trafficking of contraband in their communities,” said Sgt. Wendell Nope, Utah Post K9 Training Director. “I look forward to working with TPWD in the near future to further enhance the abilities of the canines and handlers in search and rescue situations.”

“We cannot thank Utah Post enough for their partnership and professionalism,” said Col. Craig Hunter, LE Division Director. “The department is extremely excited to see the Texas Game Warden K9 team become a reality.”

Check out a video news release about the new K9 unit on YouTube.

Mothers Against Drunk Drivers Applauds Texas Game Wardens for Enforcement

Recently in Austin, Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) honored the local law enforcement community for its work in enforcement of Texas’ intoxication laws. Texas Game Warden Theron Oatman received the Commitment Hero Award and Game Warden Capt. Scott Jurk received the Diamond Hero Leadership Award for their efforts in enforcing Boating While Intoxicated (BWI) laws on Lake Travis and Lake Austin. “Boating While Intoxicated is a serious problem all across Texas, the leading contributing factor in boating fatalities and accidents,” said Grahame Jones, Chief of Special Operations with Texas Parks and Wildlife Department’s law enforcement division. “We are proud that MADD has recognized Warden Oatman and Capt. Jurk for their dedicated work in the Highland Lakes area, and we would note that their efforts represent what game wardens do every day on lakes, rivers and bays all across Texas.”

13 Steps to Catching a 13-Pound Bass

By Larry Hodge

Every year Toyota ShareLunker program coordinator Juan Martinez talks to anglers still excited and shaking from the experience of landing a 13-pound or bigger largemouth bass, and every year almost all the stories are the same: The person never expected to catch a bass that size and was unprepared to deal with it.

Take a hint from the Boy Scouts: Be Prepared. Follow these 13 steps to catching a 13-pound bass and you will be ready.

1. Program the Toyota ShareLunker numbers into your cell phone NOW. Voice: (903) 681-0550. Pager: (888) 784-0600. Both are monitored 24 hours a day, 7 days a week during the season, which runs October 1 through April 30. Be sure to include your area code if leaving a message. (And by the way: There is no need to call either number in the middle of the night just to see if they are working. They are.)

2. Check your tackle and respool with fresh line, preferably braided. Big bass tend to hang out in the nastiest cover they can find and are quick to wrap your line around a tree. Chances are you are going to have to pull them out by brute strength.

Lake Fork Sportsman’s Association to Host
By Dick Walker, Secretary LFSA

On Tuesday, November 12, 2013, the Lake Fork Sportsman’s Association will host a presentation by the Dallas Water Utilities regarding its plans for pumping water from Lake Fork. Dallas is ready to pump, but says it understands Fork’s importance.

Dallas has invested more than $200 million to build the infrastructure to move Lake Fork water to Dallas. They have the right to a large percentage of the water at Lake Fork, which was impounded on the Sabine River in 1980. The remaining water belongs to the Sabine River Authority, which sells its share to other municipalities.

Up to this time Dallas has managed to provide its citizens with adequate water without tapping into the Lake Fork supply. This is about to change.

To get the facts and dispel any rumors, Mr. Ken DelRegno, Assistant Director of Water Production, Dallas Water Utilities, will make a brief presentation. Following his presentation Mr. DelRegno will take questions from the floor.

The LFSA would like to invite interested members of the community to attend this meeting. The meeting will be held at the Emory City Centre located on Highway 19. The doors will open at 6:00 PM, with the presentation beginning at 7:00 PM. Although this is a Lake Fork Sportsman’s Association free public service forum, attendees are asked to bring a donation of non-perishable canned goods or unused toys to assist with the LFSA Christmas Sharing Program. Cookies, soft drinks and coffee will be sold at the event.

Defendant in State Game Warden Hostage Case Pleads Guilty

A former Upshur County commissioner arrested in October 2012 for holding a state game warden at gunpoint has pled guilty to the third-degree felony offense of taking a firearm from a peace officer and further admitted in his plea that he could be found guilty of aggravated assault on a public servant.

In 115th Dist. Court, visiting judge William Porter sentenced Lloyd Allen Crabtree to 10 years in prison, but placed him on probation for five years. In addition, Crabtree was ordered to publicly apologize to the game warden and other law enforcement officers who responded to the scene last year.

Crabtree also will have to pay a $1,000 fine, take an anger management class, pay court costs and other fees as well as perform 240 hours of community service. While on probation he will have to submit to monthly drug tests and will be barred from drinking alcohol. As a convicted felon, he will be prohibited from possessing any firearms or ammunition.

The charges to which Crabtree pled guilty stem from an Oct. 6, 2012 incident in which the game warden was disarmed and detained by two armed men while the officer was making a routine check for hunting law violations on private property in Upshur County.

The game warden used his cell phone to call for help, and soon numerous local and state officers came to his assistance and ended the situation with no shots fired.

“We appreciate the support we received during this ordeal from all the other law enforcement agencies that helped out, as well as the local community,” said Lt. Col. Danny Shaw, assistant director of TPWD’s Law Enforcement Division.

“Texas game wardens will continue to serve the people of the state in all 254 counties. Our men and women will remain on the front line in protecting our natural resources and assuring public safety. For more than 120 years Texas game wardens have been committed to doing the right thing, not just what they have the right to do.”

Crabtree’s son, Todd A. Crabtree, 28, was indicted last January on three felony charges: One count of aggravated assault on a peace officer (first degree felony); one count of taking a weapon from a peace officer (third degree felony); and one count of unlawful restraint with a deadly weapon (third degree felony). The charges against him are still pending.

Initially, the father and son had been held at the Upshur County Jail in lieu of $1.5 million bond each. The incident last fall was investigated by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Law Enforcement Division.

UPDATE:

Todd A. Crabtree recently pled guilty to one count of unlawful restraint, a Class A misdemeanor.

In 115th Dist. Court, Judge Lauren Parish sentenced 28-year-old Todd A. Crabtree to a one-year jail sentence, probated for two years. In addition, Crabtree was ordered to publicly apologize to the game warden and other law enforcement officers who responded to the scene last year.

Crabtree also will have to pay a $250 fine, take an anger management class, pay court costs and other fees as well as perform 100 hours of community service. While on probation he will have to submit to monthly drug tests and will be barred from drinking alcohol. He also will be prohibited from possessing any firearms or ammunition during his probation.

“The Texas Parks and Wildlife Law Enforcement Division fully supports this plea agreement as well as the previous plea agreement regarding Lloyd Crabtree,” said TPWD Law Enforcement Division Director Col. Craig Hunter.

“Pack of Knowledge” Isolated Cover: When Less Is More

By Tom Redington

As a kid growing up on the farm, I was often dispatched by my father to round up cattle. Some of our pastures were solid forests running along the river and it could take over an hour just to locate the herd. Other pastures had just a couple of lone trees and a single watering hole. In this case, the cows could be found predictably hanging out in the shade under a single tree or getting a drink. Finding bass is often similar. Sure, we all love huge coves just full of lily pads, hydrilla, or cypress trees. However, the euphoria of finding a treasure trove of fish habitat is quickly overcome by the helpless sense of looking for a needle in a haystack.

Fishing isolated cover can be a great strategy when you’re catching a lot of fish and also when you’re struggling. On days when the bite is good, isolated pieces of cover often produce a big kicker to anchor your limit, or might have a number of good fish to provide considerable upgrades. On the other hand, if you’re struggling to catch anything on a tough day, scrapping your plans and just hitting any random piece of isolated cover you locate is often a good backup plan to fashion a limit.

So what exactly do I mean by “isolated cover?” As opposed to “structure” which is a change in the bottom contour (e.g. humps, creek channels, points), “cover” is anything in the water that provides shelter for smaller fish or an ambush spot for predators. Classic examples of cover are laydown trees, submerged weeds, brushpiles, docks, and stumps. What I’m specifically looking for is “isolated cover,” so instead of a cove full of docks or trees, I scout for an area with a single dock or a shoreline with just one laydown in the water. With weeds, it might be a small clump of lily pads in a bay that’s otherwise covered with hydrilla, or a small patch of milfoil that is separated from all the rest of the underwater grass in the creek and is slightly deeper. Basically, you’re looking for oddities and anomalies.

Whereas bass are often randomly spread out in areas with lots of cover, they will frequently group up on isolated cover. If I’m going down a shore with 30 boat docks, I’ll make a few quick casts to each one and keep moving. However, if another bank only has one dock on it, odds are good that if I find one bass on it, there are multiple fish there. In general, the less cover options fish have in an area, the more concentrated they’ll be on the few pieces of cover there. This is also important to keep in mind if you plant brushpiles. In a cove or area with no docks, laydowns, trees, or weeds, your brushpile becomes about the only game in town and will likely be a bass magnet. Drop it in the middle of a big weed patch or stump flat and you’re often just adding to the haystack in which the needle (bass) resides.

Fishing isolated cover is pretty simple. I start off probing the edges of the cover with a moving bait and try to catch active fish before they know I’m there. Square bill cranks like a Lucky Craft 1.5 trigger a ton of strikes as they deflect off probing the edges of the cover with a moving bait and try to catch active fish before they know I’m there. Square bill cranks like a Lucky Craft 1.5 trigger a ton of strikes as they deflect off of limbs, posts, or grass in the shallows, or switch to the 1.5DD version of the same bait if... the bigger bass feeding on shad and yellow ture. These fish are feeding on shad with and on some of the main lake offshore struc show up out deep at the mouths of the creeks. There are usually a good number of fish that deep, so it is kind of a tossup day to day. The bite in November. Some shallow and some the bigger fish we catch all year long seem to low or deep, either way can be good. A lot of the fall feeding frenzy and boy can it be a Fall is here and the bass are moving. 13 STEPS TO CATCHING A 13-POUND BASS

5. Get a rubber net. These are much kinder to fish than nets with knot-ted construction. Abrasions make a fish more vulnerable to infections.

6. Get a scale and check its accuracy using a known weight. (A five-pound sack of flour or sugar and a gallon of water in a plastic grocery bag should weigh about 13.5 pounds.) This can save much time and frustration trying to find a place to weigh a fish.

8. Know the locations of official ShareLunker weigh and holding stations (http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/spdest/visitorcenters/tffc/sharelunker/holding/). These places have certified scales for weighing your fish, a specially equipped tank for holding it, and personnel who have been trained by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists on how to care for big bass. Taking your fish to one of these stations, if one is nearby, is perhaps the single most important thing you can do to insure its survival.

9. Expect to catch a lunker. Many lunkers are caught by people who just went fishing and did not expect to hook a trophy bass, and they didn’t have a net, or didn’t fill their livewell, or didn’t have a scale or know where to take a fish to have it weighed. Any time you fish in Texas, you have a chance to catch a 13-pound or bigger bass. Act like a Boy Scout. Expect the unexpected.

10. Buy a fishing license and know the regulations for the body of water you fish. Some big bass have not been accepted into the ShareLunker program because they were not legally caught. The first thing the TPWD employee does when picking up a fish is check the condi-

11. It’s best to use a rubber net to land a fish, but if you must lip it, take care not to suspend the fish’s weight from its jaw. This can break the jaw and make it impossible for the fish to feed. Grip the fish’s mouth firmly with one hand and its tail with the other, and handle it as little as possible for avoiding its protective slime coat.

12. Treat the fish with respect after catching it. Quickly take photos of yourself with the fish, and then leave it alone. Don’t let others handle the fish and have their picture taken with it. It’s your fish. You want it to live to go back into the lake. The process starts with you.

over our state.”

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department’s Law Enforcement Division was also honored during the ceremony as one of five agencies to receive the DWI Enforcement Agency Award. “This award truly embodies the spirit of each Game Warden across the state through their dedicated services and efforts to stop drunk driving and drunk boating every day across this great state”, said Cody Jones, Asst. Commander and Boating Law Administrator with TPWD’s law enforcement division.

the isolated cover is in 4’- 9’. If the bass are feeding up on shad more than chasing near the bottom, a 3/8 oz bladed jig with a Live Magic Shad trailer tends to catch big fish that have become conditioned to so many spinnerbaits over the years. If it’s 8’ deep or less, I drop my Power Poles and make repeated casts from a distance.

After I’m convinced I’ve caught all the chasers, I’ll quietly drift in a bit closer and drop my Poles again, staying back as far as I can while still presenting a roll cast with very little splash. Jigs will certainly catch fish from these spots, but Texas rigged creature baits are more weedless, with less risk of ruining the spot by snagging. For bigger bass and on active days, a 3/8 oz bullet weight with a Lake Fork Craw Tube is my favorite to fling around. If the fish are smaller or the bite is tough, I’ll drop down to a smaller Texas rigged Baby Fork Creature or Hyper Stick with a 1/8 to ¼ oz bullet weight and slowly probe every square inch of their hideout. Again, I can’t emphasize enough how fish tend to stack up on isolated cover and you can regularly catch multiple good fish from one little spot if you stay away and keep quiet. Long, accurate casts to key areas of the cover without snagging are the key to maximizing your catch. Roll casts with long rods allow the splashless entry of a pitch, yet from a much farther distance, especially with long rods. I’ve found the Dobyns 7’3” lineup of Savvy or Champion rods to be perfect for moving baits like cranks and chatterbaits, while their ultrasensitive 7’4” Extreme models precisely cast Texas rigs and still deliver great feel from long distances.

In fishing, less is often more. Try some isolated cover on your next trip and you might just find a herd of lunkers hanging out there.
